

Published based on How do you determine who owns real estate when you don't know the address?

How do you determine who owns real estate when you don't know the address?

Question by trater04: How do you determine who owns real estate when you don't know the address?

I would like to find out who owns real estate that is in a remote location and has no address. How do I tell the court house where the property is if I don't have an address? I have never searched at the courthouse. Is it easy to find out who owns the property? Are there maps that can be viewed?

Best answer:

Answer by godged

There are plat maps you can look at, but probably not at the tax assessor's office. Ask where you can take a look at plat maps, probably at the planning office.

On my local tax assessor's website, if you know a neighboring address, you can click "next" or "previous" and it takes you to the next address. Not exactly fool proof, but it could help.

You could ask a Realtor to help you out, find one that is very familiar with that area, they may be able to help.

Give your answer to this question below!

You can also find this article published on How do you determine who owns real estate when you don't know the address?, and on the tag pages address, determine, don't, Estate, Know, owns, Real.