When people think of luxury villas rental they often think that luxury means something that is expensive. It suggests something for the elite, something that it is not affordable for normal people. One of the biggest benefits of a luxury villa is that you get more space. There can also often be a number of other facilities such as heated pools and free internet connection. Another big reason why luxury villas rental is cheaper than staying in a hotel is that they are often self catering. This means you can cook for yourself as opposed to dining in expensive restaurants or having to order room service in your room or discovering an excessive bill for items taken from the minibar.

In a lot of countries self catering is also a great way of finding local cuisine. Sometimes visiting local markets and stores can be a pleasure in and of itself, giving you the sights, sounds and smells of the local culture. It can give you a broader experience that you may not necessarily experience in a hotel room. If you are staying with your family it is a good way of getting some quality time together.

Sometimes a luxury villa will be listed as all inclusive. This should mean that all bills are covered. However as with any deal there will often be terms and conditions. Like electricity bills there may be a fair usage policy so it is important to clarify this before you visit the property.
